TOPIC

Delivery of a Successful Design-Build – Long Island Railroad Expansion Project

The LIRR Expansion Project is a $2.5B Design-Build that was completed in 4.5 years by constructing over 9 miles of a new track, elimination of eight at-grade street crossings, reconstruction of five passenger stations, construction of two parking garages, installation of over ten miles of retaining and sound attenuation walls, and all new railroad systems and infrastructure. This project was successful in achieving all major milestones on-schedule and continues to be on-budget. In this discussion, you will learn the details of the project and how a project of this size can be delivered successfully.
